

RYOSAN

RYOSAN'S GROWING CHINESE NETWORK

Ryosan Company, Limited is an electronics systems coordinator with an overseas network concentrated in the Asian region. Ryosan established its first foothold in the region 35 years ago. Since then, Ryosan has established a network throughout China that serves as a solid base for its sales activities.

RYOSAN'S UNPARALLELED PRESENCE IN CHINA

Since establishing Hong Kong Ryosan Limited in 1974, Ryosan has steadily expanded its business activities in China. Today, Ryosan has five local companies and six sales offices—in Hong Kong, Beijing, Shenzhen, Shanghai, Chengdu, Qingdao, Changchun, Dalian, and Foshan. Ryosan's workforce consists of approximately 130 employees throughout China (excluding factory staff), and is the largest of any Japanese semiconductor trading company. In fiscal 2008, ended March 31, 2009, Ryosan's sales in China amounted to US$325 million. We will continue expanding our network in China, a market that is expected to continue growing strongly. To this end, we will utilize the three major competitive functions of Ryosan: information function, solution function, and distribution function.

CHINA SEMICONDUCTOR MARKETING DEPARTMENT

Headquartered in Shanghai, this department also has sales representatives in Hong Kong, Shenzhen, Changchun, Qingdao, and Chengdu. Its team of Japanese, mainland Chinese, Taiwanese, and Hong Kong staff provide technical support for not only local Chinese companies, but also the development divisions of Japanese companies in China. The level and speed of the Department's coordination with the Engineering Headquarters at Ryosan's head office in Japan and the engineering departments of suppliers is comparable to that between Ryosan's marketing departments in Japan.
